Update on the teacher accommodation at St John Leonard's School

Teachers at St. John Nursery and primary school will be enjoying the comfort of a fully constructed and well-furnished house very soon. Teachers wished they could stay in a simple house that is decent with comfort and thanks to every supporter the five unit teachers' quarters will soon be ready for teachers' usage.

The accommodation will help with providing quality education to the learners at St. John Leonard primary school.. Teachers will be in position to reach early for work and save transport costs. On the side of the school administration, rent for teachers will no longer be an issue. The houses are multipurpose; each room has a bathroom, store and veranda for privacy.

Teachers' standards of living have been uplifted. Thank you so much for the great improvement in the life of a teacher. Teacher George excitedly said: the rooms are good and large. They can accommodate a family even when you have visitors. They have stores where one can cook from.

See how great they look !

A fundraising ceremony was held with the release of the school's music album launch late last year. At this event, local leaders, members of parliament and businessmen worked hand in hand with the school to paint, plaster and make bricks for the construction of the houses.

UCE and PLE results are out!

Bravo! It is great news that all the supported children passed the national exams last year in PLE and UCE. Thank you so much for constantly supporting them in school. In primary leaving examinations, out of the six supported children that had sat for primary leaving examinations, one got a first grade, 4 got a second grade and one got a 4th grade. They worked so hard in order to bring smiles on everyone's faces.

In UCE, the only child that had sat for UCE got a first grade with eighteen aggregates. The primary children have now successfully joined secondary school.

Thank you so much for donating to Fulfilling Futures to see that these children attain basic education.

Visitor to the schools

Adrian Carver, retired headteacher from Downs View School in Brighton, spent time with the children and staff at Archbishop Kiwanuka school and St. John Leonard primary school. Adrian participated in a number of school activities such as watching children debate the issue: 'Technology has done more harm than good', visiting them in their respective classes and listening to the school band. The children enjoyed asking him a lot of questions about England.

Adrian is a trustee with the Fonthill Foundation who have worked with both schools and Fulfilling Futures previously supporting projects.
